

I have come here to St Margaret's
Lupus Sufferers to support
With friends and family, boys and girls
Ah and so many others.

Now don't think you're all alone, 'cos
Angie and the Lupus Trust are right here, by your side
They're here to help and raise money, equipment to provide.

Now we know Angie can be forceful, quite formidable at times,
But I can't wait 'til Sunday and into Santa suit she climbs
She's going to Greenwich Park you see 6 miles for to run,
But with boots and beard and hills to climb knackered seems to be the pun.

Now that's when I will approach her,
Pen and paper in my hand, but why you cry, she's not a celeb.
She's not even on the telly?
She's not a cook, or jungle dwellie or in a soap that I might see.
Or even been made over by the experts on ITV,
She's strictly not in dancing on ice or on the floor
But she does have the X Factor, on that I'm completely sure
But I've never seen her on the Bill, trying to batter down a door.

No she is not famous, well not like that at least
This is Angie that I talk about quite a feisty beast.
But she is such a special lady that we want to make it known
Angie you're an Angel to all us who have known,
The love and care to so many others you have shown.

So here we are at St. Margaret's
Lupus sufferers to support
To each and every one of you, my love is freely brought.
To be with you on this, you're special night,
It is to Alex Walkinshaw your complaints they must be wrote.
To all the other Trust members please don't grab me by the throat!
You see although it was me who decided Angie would be thus written
If only I had known your names some rhyme of you I'd written.
So let us now carry on the fun
As Angie takes control
To each and every one of you it's thanks from Graham Cole.....

Written and performed by actor Graham Cole at the St. Thomas Lupus Trust
Christmas Concert December 2009.